

"You shall love the Lord, your God, with all your heart,
with all your soul, and with all your mind.
This is the greatest and the first commandment.
The second is like it: You shall love your neighbor as yourself."

Reflections from the Heart by Fr. Ivan

"Whoever loves me will keep my word, says the Lord, and my Father will love him and we will come to him." Loving our Lord with all our heart and being and desiring to remain with him in his love is the fruitfulness of peace and a gift of the Holy Spirit. The one thing that strikes me most about peace is our deep longing and sincere desire for peace, but we do not really understand where to find it and we do not really know where to begin. We desire peace, we know we need it, but we do not understand what it looks like, but we long for it and even pray for peace for ourselves, for our family, for our faith and even for this world. We sing, "let there be peace on earth and let it begin with me." That seems to be a good place to start, with "Me". Peace seems to be more intimate and delicate than just tuning out the world and finding a quiet place free from noise and noisy relatives, coworkers, and friends. Peace is very personal, a gift, something for self, something way more interior than exterior. If the interior reflects peace on the inside, then it will reflect peace on the outside, bringing more peace into the world, our homes and workplaces. We must give peace a chance and opportunity to work and become effective, to take root, be savored, to become everlasting peace. Peace begins in silence, continues with self-examination, begins to grow in spiritual discernment, blossoms with grace and becomes truly fruitful in prayer. Interior quiet and silence is the key that opens the great door to the possibility of peace. It is there in that inner room in all our hearts, in the quiet and inner stillness where God helps us to see what keeps us from true everlasting peace. In the quiet, God reveals what takes peace away or keeps us from experiencing peace, more peace, having peace always. Things like unforgiveness, hatred, violence and anger or leaving past hurts and wounds unresolved and unattended or seeking worldly pleasure rather than seeking God or craving and lusting virtual encounters. This all certainly keeps us from peace. We need to pray for peace, but we first need to pray for interior conversion of heart for ourselves, this world, our families, and those people who love us and those who love to hate us. Then there will surely be everlasting peace in our hearts and more of God's love in this world.

St. Ignatius of Antioch, Bishop, Martyr – Oct. 17

Pillars of Faith

By Fr. Stephen Baumann

Ignatius is well known for the seven letters he wrote on his journey from Antioch (Syria) to Rome where he was martyred. This venerable bishop, successor of St. Peter in Antioch, is an endearing figure of the first century of Christianity.

His letters were addressed to various Christian communities along the way, where he stopped on his journey to preach to all Christians of all times and places.

"Jesus Christ is our only teacher" (To the Magnesians); "He is really of the line of David...and the Son of God by the will and power of God; was really born of a Virgin" (to the Smyrnians).

The Church is "the place of sacrifice," the Eucharist is "the medicine of immortality, the antidote against death, and everlasting life in Jesus Christ" (to the Ephesians). He admonishes:

"Take care, then, to partake of one Eucharist, for one is the Flesh of Our Lord Jesus Christ, and one the cup to unite us with His Blood, and one altar, just as there is one bishop assisted by the presbytery (priests) and the deacons, my fellow servants" (to the Philadelphians). "The Eucharist is the Flesh of our Savior Jesus Christ, who suffered for our sins, and whom the Father in His loving kindness raised from the dead." (To the Smyrnians).

In this letter, he appeals to the Roman community not to intervene on his behalf and thus deprive him of the grace of martyrdom:

"Pray for me that I may obtain my desire. I have not written to you as a mere man would, but as one who knows the mind of God. If I am condemned to suffer, I will take it that you wish me well. If my case is postponed, I can only think that you wish me harm...I plead with you: show me no untimely kindness. Let me be food for the wild beasts, for they are my way to God. I am God's wheat and shall be ground by their teeth so that I may become Christ's pure bread. Pray to Christ for me that the animals will be the means of making me a sacrificial victim for God."

The wish of Ignatius was fulfilled. He was cast to wild lions in the Roman Amphitheater and died a martyr's death in 107 A.D.

Have you met Coogie the Dumpster Cat?

As a kitten in 2017, he was abandoned in a Miami dumpster and brought to me by a friend who knew I rescued strays. Now, he is the STAR of his own children's book series that I am writing and donating my profits to charity.

As fate would have it, Coogie was most likely born on July 7th, the day my late husband went to Heaven. I truly believe he was sent to help me through that incredible loss.

Now, together, we are "paying it forward" to help others.
