REFLECTIONS FROM THE HEART

by Fr. Ivan

“May your kindness, O LORD, be upon us who have put our hope in you.” What do you hope for, will it make you happier, better off, more content? What if it really happened, how would you be different, the world better, God pleased with you asking? Sometimes we hope for things that can be helpful to others, other times we ask for things that can hurt others. Sometimes we hope to be faster than another, better looking than another, smarter than another, wealthier than another is. Sometimes we hope for grace, a blessing, we will the good for the other. Other times we hope and pray that another person fails, that we could have had different parents, another spouse, better siblings. Sometimes we envy what others have, own, or gifted. Sometimes we hope to be different, have a different identity, perhaps be born in another era - perhaps never born at all. We may hope to be different from ourselves; different from others, somehow better or greater in our eyes or better or less known in our own opinion. Sometimes we hope for things that do not really matter or benefit others. At times, we pray for the demise of another, the ridding of a people, the elimination of an individual. In the end, will that really help us? Will that help you? Scripture says hope never disappoints and that our hope is in the Lord who made heaven and earth. Our hope is in the One who came to save us, redeem us and grant us everlasting life and peace. Our hope is that God will love us, breathe new life in us, resurrect us and join us to our family and friends who have died in the hope of rising again. Our hope is that God will believe us, forgive us, heal us, never abandon or leave us but remain with us forever. Hope encourages faith, gives strength, increases confidence, and inspires us to keep going. Hope floods us with the hope and possibility of loving again. Hope inspires us to say, we can do it, everything is going to be okay, God will get us through this. Hope is the blessing that gives us the confidence to believe, the dare to dream, the power to wait with quiet expectation and the patience to long for something better, more worthwhile, someone who will bring us the help and healing we need, an end to our chronic suffering, give us a new day, an everlasting life and perpetual peace. Hope. God will provide.

GROW IN YOUR FAITH

CATECHISM of the CATHOLIC CHURCH

Catechism Corner

"Hope is expressed and nourished in prayer, especially in the Our Father, the summary of everything that hope leads us to desire."

1820 Christian hope unfolds from the beginning of Jesus' preaching in the proclamation of the beatitudes. The beatitudes raise our hope toward heaven as the new Promised Land; they trace the path that leads through the trials that await the disciples of Jesus. But through the merits of Jesus Christ and of his Passion, God keeps us in the "hope that does not disappoint." Hope is the "sure and steadfast anchor of the soul . . . that enters . . . where Jesus has gone as a forerunner on our behalf." Hope is also a weapon that protects us in the struggle of salvation: "Let us . . . put on the breastplate of faith and charity, and for a helmet the hope of salvation." It affords us joy even under trial: "Rejoice in your hope, be patient in tribulation."

St. John Leonardi, Priest – October 9

After ordination to the priesthood, John Leonardi (1541-1609) gathered a group of laymen to assist him in the care of the sick and to work for the spiritual good of prisoners. Motivated by the reforms of the Council of Trent, he founded a society of diocesan priests in 1574 to carry out the mandated renewal of the Council. The young men who had been assisting him all became priests. The society was later approved as the Clerics Regular of the Mother of God.

St. John Leonardi was also a preacher of renewal and promoted the religious instruction of the young. In a letter to Pope Paul V, he wrote: "Nothing should be left untried that can train children from early childhood in good morals and in the earnest practice of Christianity. To this end, nothing is more effective than pious instructions in Christian doctrine. Children should be entrusted only to good and God-fearing teachers."

He associated also the founding of a society of priests dedicated to working in foreign missions, which later became the Society for the Propagation of the Faith. St. John Leonardi was also requested by Pope Clement VIII to assist in the renewal and reform of several religious communities.

His letter to Pope Paul V expresses a desire for genuine reform and spiritual renewal in the Church. He wrote that: "Reform must begin with high and low alike, with superiors and inferiors. Yet the reformers must look first to those who are set over the rest, so that reform can begin at the point from which it may spread to others." He then boldly says that it must begin "with cardinals, patriarchs, archbishops, bishops and priests" who have a particular responsibility to be guides.

"Those who want to work for moral reform in the world must seek the glory of God before all else. Because He is the source of all good, they must wait for his help, and pray for it in this difficult and necessary undertaking. They must then present themselves to those they seek to reform, as mirrors of every virtue and as lamps on a lampstand. Their upright lives and noble conduct must shine before all those who are in the house of God. In this way, they will gently entice the members of the Church to reform instead of forcing them, lest, in the words of the Council of Trent, they demand of the body what is not found in the head, and thus upset the whole order of the Lord's household." (Letter to Pope Paul V).

The Church has always known the truth of the remark made by George Bernard Shaw: "The best reformers the world has ever seen are those who commence on themselves." It is an on-going need in the Church and God has always raised up prophets in time of need. Today we honor St. John Leonardi as one of those prophets.

St. John Leonardi died in 1609 in Rome after contracting the plague from those to whom he ministered and he was canonized in 1938.

To have the name of a loved one who has recently died within the last year, added to the prayer, please call or text Ann Stanko at 407-497-1618 by October 31st. No call is necessary if the Funeral Mass was held at our Parish.

Prayer to Defeat Florida's Abortion Amendment

Ever-living God, you give life and desire a future for all your children. Take hold of our nation, state, and community and awaken in every heart awe for the gift of life. Send your Spirit to strengthen us with wisdom and fortitude as we defend mothers and children in Florida from laws that disregard their health and safety.

Mary and Joseph trusted in you and welcomed Jesus into our broken world. God Almighty, we ask their intercession to protect the preborn and their mothers, and to guide all parents in raising their children. May they help us build a civilization of love by upholding the sacredness of life and accompanying pregnant women in need. We ask this through Christ, our Lord. Amen.
