The Universal Church celebrates the Jubilee Year 2025 - the 2,025th anniversary of the Incarnation of our Lord.

Pope Francis stated in his February 2022 letter announcing the Jubilee 2025: "We must fan the flame of hope that has been given us and help everyone to gain new strength and certainty by looking to the future with an open spirit, a trusting heart and far-sighted vision. The forthcoming Jubilee can contribute greatly to restoring a climate of hope and trust as a prelude to the renewal and rebirth that we so urgently desire..."

REFLECTIONS FROM THE HEART

by Fr. Ivan

"After Jesus had been baptized and was praying, the Holy Spirit descended upon him and a voice came from heaven, "You are my beloved Son; with you I am well pleased." I think and wonder how prayer is such a marvelous and incredible gift. It is such a blessing to me. I do not know how I could live or function without prayer. However, I also realize I did not always think prayer was such a marvelous or incredible gift or could appreciate how amazing prayer can truly be. Praying was not automatic in my early days nor my go to in every situation or circumstance. It seemed to be that last minute resort or the thing to do when everything else failed or that thing I had to do when nothing else seemed to work. It was only in those desperate times and urgent moments that I found myself in a church on my knees begging, negotiating, pleading and promising better ways and better behavior if only I could obtain the answer to my request. That is what I used to call praying. It is so sad to note, but honest to confess, that prayer only seemed to work when I seemed to get my way. Now, praise God, I confess how prayer is oxygen to me. It is better than food and sweeter than any nectar or passion fruit. Prayer is the immediacy of God. His closeness, his intimacy, his profoundly real presence, the source and summit of all I really need, long for and desire. Prayer is consoling, revealing, healing and uplifting. Prayer is a person, an ear, a heart, a shoulder to cry on and a dependable person that I can always faithfully rely on to give me good counsel, helpful guidance and the right and only answer I need to know. Prayer is life giving, lifesaving, life changing but only if you pray with an open mind and generous heart. Prayer requires patience, silence, attention, a listening spirit and a receptive disposition. You cannot pray or say you pray if you are not truly discerning God's plan or will for you, but have already made up your mind, have determined the answer or already made the decision. That could appear close-minded, negotiated, or being manipulative. Prayer assumes the only reason you pray is to be near or closer to God. Prayer is not uttering many words, but rather listening carefully all of the time, so you can hear God speak and say, I love you, "with you I am well pleased."

Catechism Corner

"The Holy Spirit, whose anointing permeates our whole being, is the interior Master of Christian prayer. He is the artisan of the living tradition of prayer."

2691 The church, the house of God, is the proper place for the liturgical prayer of the parish community. It is also the privileged place for adoration of the real presence of Christ in the Blessed Sacrament. The choice of a favorable place is not a matter of indifference for true prayer.

- For personal prayer, this can be a "prayer corner" with the Sacred Scriptures and icons, in order to be there, in secret, before our Father. In a Christian family, this kind of little oratory fosters prayer in common.

- In regions where monasteries exist, the vocation of these communities is to further the participation of the faithful in the Liturgy of the Hours and to provide necessary solitude for more intense personal prayer.

- Pilgrimages evoke our earthly journey toward heaven and are traditionally very special occasions for renewal in prayer. For pilgrims seeking living water, shrines are special places for living the forms of Christian prayer "in Church."

The History of the Marian icon of "Salus Populi Romani"

The dating of this icon of the Mother of God, kept at the Basilica of St. Mary Major and called since the 19th century "Salus Populi Romani," is controversial. It varies from the 7th to the 12th century.

Tradition maintains that it is a copy, painted by the evangelist Luke, of an image of Mary with Child that miraculously appeared in Lydda in a church built by the apostles Peter and John. First preserved in Byzantium, it is told that the icon arrived in Rome by sea, welcomed by Pope Gregory the Great on the banks of the Tiber.

Cardinal Cesare Baronio, a Church historian, wrote that it was Pope Gregory who brought the icon to the Basilica of St. Mary Major in 590, at the end of a procession to invoke the cessation of one of the worst plagues in the city's history. On that occasion, the archangel Michael was seen above the Mole Adriana Park putting his sword back into its sheath. The plague ended, and the park was given the name of Castel Sant'Angelo.

Another plague ended in the 16th century thanks to the intercession of the Madonna depicted on this icon, when St. Pius V carried it in procession to the Basilica of St. Peter. The Jesuits accompanied their first missions with reproductions of this icon, which they highly venerated. Pius XII paid homage to it when he proclaimed the dogma of the Assumption in 1950, and again crowned it in St. Peter's in 1954, at the centenary of the proclamation of the dogma of the Immaculate Conception.

John Paul II associated a copy of this icon with the World Youth Day of 2000, in Rome. And beginning with the one in Cologne in 2005, celebrated by Benedict XVI, all of the following World Youth Days have carried in pilgrimage a copy of the icon of "Salus Populi Romani," together with the Cross. Pope Francis also wanted it at World Youth Day in Rio de Janeiro last July. After he was elected pope, his first outing was to the Basilica of St. Mary Major, to kneel in prayer in front of this icon.

The image depicted on it is the one called "Odigitria": the Virgin holds in her arms the Child who is looking at her lovingly while with his right hand raised in blessing he seems to be indicating the way whose direction and journey his mother knows well. What is striking about this icon is the intense gaze of Mary, which invites the viewer to travel the road indicated by the Son. She is looking into the distance, in the direction in which he is pointing.

Her right hand, which is holding the Child, repeats the gesture of Jesus and amplifies it. In the ancient Roman rite, at the feast of the Assumption of Mary into heaven the icon of "Salus Populi Romani" was welcomed at the door of the Basilica of St. Mary Major, the icon of Christ "acheropita" (not painted by human hands) and kept in the "Sancta Sanctorum" of the pope's residence at the Lateran and was carried there in procession. In a sort of dance between the two icons, the Son paid homage to the Mother.
