CELEBRATING CATHOLIC SCHOOL'S WEEK!

REFLECTIONS FROM THE HEART

by Fr. Ivan

"Do not be saddened this day, for rejoicing in the LORD must be your strength!" Where does your sadness come from? Where is the source of all that hurt, disappointment, and anger inside of you making you feel helpless and unable to change a circumstance or the outcome? Where is the sadness inside of you that feels like every day there is a dreary stormy cloud following you, hovering over you, chasing you even as you try to rest and get away from the dark gray foggy feeling? Where is that unreachable, uncontrollable sadness that displaces and overwhelms all the possible joy and joyful celebrations life invites you to encounter and experience? Sadness is so depressing. We are saddened when life is disrespected, unappreciated, taken for granted or just taken away. We are saddened that our children have to face a constant daily onset of confusion, lies, betrayals, misleading questions or the risk of being victimized or taken advantage of. We are saddened that we cannot really trust with any great trust or certainty the care of our elderly or aging parents. We are saddened by the surge of scammers looking to defraud us by the fake false alias people use to entrap us, and the malicious theft, robbing and stealing of our identity, personal property and our personal privacy. We are saddened when people are left without a home, when people cannot feed their family, when we cannot pay our insurance premiums, or when the sick are left to die for lack of benefits or people that will treat them kindly by treating them medically. We are sad that people are sad and worried all the time, living out their day and life in a constant state of fear, anxiety or depression. There is so much more that saddens us but the Lord says to us and to those in a constant state of sadness, "Do not be saddened this day, for rejoicing in the LORD must be your strength!" There is a great joy that begins to emerge when we consider the possibility that God is there with you, he is here with us; we are not alone, forsaken or left in the dark to go at it alone. God literally is our hope, our joy, our salvation; the object of our faith, our long for desire, the One we can trust - the One we place our hope and trust in. We are sad and saddened by so many things but in the end, God will be the cause of our joy.

Catechism Corner

Jesus is saddened by the "lack of faith" of his own neighbors and the "little faith" of his own disciples.

1769 In the Christian life, the Holy Spirit himself accomplishes his work by mobilizing the whole being, with all its sorrows, fears and sadness, as is visible in the Lord's agony and passion. In Christ human feelings are able to reach their consummation in charity and divine beatitude.

Words to Live By

Never let evil talk pass your lips; say only the good things men need to hear, things that will really help them. Do nothing that will sadden the Holy Spirit with whom you were sealed against the day of redemption.

Get rid of all bitterness, all passion and anger, harsh words, slander, and malice of every kind. In place of these, be kind to one another, compassionate, and mutually forgiving, just as God has forgiven you in Christ.

Ephesians 4:29-32

St. Agnes, Virgin, Martyr

Of the early Roman virgin martyrs, we know little other than what legends tell us, or what we learn from some of the great Fathers of the Church who left us sermons commemorating celebrations in honor of these heroic young women.

St. Agnes is said to have suffered martyrdom at the age of 12. "The cruelty that did not spare her youth shows all the more clearly the power of faith in finding one so young to bear it witness." (St. Ambrose, Treatise on Virginity, Book 1; Cf. 2nd Reading, Liturgy of the Hours).

The martyrdom of St. Agnes is factual, but the details are legendary. A beautiful young girl of a wealthy family, she resolved early to live purely and to consecrate her virginity to God. This was not an uncommon practice even in the third century. Denounced by unsuccessful suitors, she was sent to a house of prostitution. There she successfully preserved her virginity by her saintly conduct and in one instance by a miracle. She was ordered beheaded, or stabbed in the throat. St. Ambrose remarked that she was "too young to know of death, yet...ready to face it."

The Collect of Mass tells us that God chooses "what the world considers weak to put worldly power to shame."

St. Ambrose continues: "In the midst of tears, she sheds no tears herself. The crowds marvel at her recklessness in throwing away her life untasted, as if she had already lived life to the full. All are amazed that one not yet of legal age can give her testimony to God, though her testimony in human affairs could not yet be accepted. What is beyond the power of nature, they argue, must come from its creator." (Op. cit.).

"While still so young, she overcame death and found true life." (Responsorial to 2nd Reading, Liturgy of the Hours)
