REFLECTION ON THE GOSPEL

"Go and tell John what you hear and see: the blind regain their sight, the lame walk, lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, and the poor have the good news proclaimed to them. And blessed is the one who takes no offense at me."

What are we searching for? While we know we are all searching for God, we cannot always anticipate the ways in which he will make himself present to us.

In today's gospel we hear that John the Baptist sent his disciples to ask Jesus to confirm his identity as the Messiah. Jesus does not confirm his identity by saying "I am the Messiah," but through the fruits of his good works. The blind see, the deaf hear, the dead are raised! Doesn't it seem odd that John didn't know with certainty that Jesus was the Messiah? Why would he question if Jesus was the one who was to come? Jesus is the one whom John sought, but he did not appear in the ways that John expected.

Jesus worked many miracles as prophesied by Isaiah. However, he does more than just fulfill the prophecy in a literal sense. Jesus raises not just those who are dead physically, like Lazarus, but those who likely believed themselves dead in spirit. Tax collectors, prostitutes, great sinners find life through their encounters with Jesus Christ and they who were spiritually dead are raised back to life. John expected Jesus to come with a message of repentance, of judgment. Jesus comes preaching a message of mercy, healing, and of compassion towards sinners. John's expectations of what form the Messiah would take needed to be adjusted-what he thought he was looking for was not what he found. How often do we find that God comes to us in ways that we ourselves were not prepared for, that we could not anticipate?

We are at the midway point of Advent, celebrating Gaudete Sunday. In a particular way we are called to remember the joy of this season in which we prepare for Christ's second coming. Jesus has made himself present to us already through his Incarnation. He comes to us each day in many and varied ways to remind us always of his deep love for us and desire that we be united to him. As we draw closer to Christmas, let us remember that God is always present to us, that he is the one whom we seek. Do not allow your expectations of how God should appear prevent you from seeing the ways in which he makes himself manifest in your life. May the abiding joy of Jesus be with you through the remainder of this Advent season.

GROW IN YOUR FAITH

The Kids Bulletin

What are we looking for?

We all want to find God. But sometimes God comes in ways we do not expect.

In today's Gospel, John the Baptist sent his helpers to ask Jesus, "Are you the one who is coming?" Jesus did not say, "I am the Messiah." He showed it by His good works. Blind people could see. Deaf people could hear. Sick people were made well. Even people who died were brought back to life!

It may seem strange that John was not sure Jesus was the Messiah. But Jesus did not come in the way John thought. John expected talk about punishment. Jesus talked about love, mercy, healing, and kindness.

Jesus helped people who felt far from God—like tax collectors and other sinners. Their hearts felt "dead," but Jesus made them alive again.

Sometimes we think God will come in a certain way. But God often comes in small and surprising ways.

Today we celebrate Gaudete Sunday, the Sunday of Joy. We are halfway through Advent and getting ready for Jesus! Jesus came long ago at Christmas, and He comes to us every day to show His love.

As Christmas gets closer, remember this: God is always near. He is the one our hearts look for.

St. Ambrose – Bishop and Doctor (Teacher) of the Church – December 7

St. Ambrose (340 – 397) was considered by his contemporaries as "the exemplar of what a bishop should be – holy, learned, courageous, patient and immovable when necessitated for the Faith." (J. Delaney, Dictionary of the Saints, p. 49).

Ambrose was born in Trier, Germany, where his father was Prefect of Gaul (France). He was taken to Rome after the death of his father, and educated there in the law. He took a position in government as Roman governor of Milan about 370. Still a catechumen, he was chosen to be a bishop when he intervened successfully to keep peace between conflicting factions at the election of a bishop. Remember in those days, unlike now, bishops were actually elected by the priests and people.

Baptized on December 7th, he was consecrated bishop one week later. From that day on he became a churchman, par excellence. In a Life of Ambrose, written by St. Paulinus of Nola in 422, he wrote that Bishop Ambrose "bestowed all the gold and silver he possessed upon the Church for the poor. He even gave the Church the landholdings he owned from his family...and left nothing here below which he could call his own." Life of Ambrose, p. 38.

St. Ambrose was the outstanding bishop in Italy in his time. Even the bishops of Rome looked to him for leadership and guidance. From his contemporaries, we know he was appreciated for his sensitive, human gentleness, and his deep evangelical spirit.
