

Annunciation hearts are burning to know, love and serve God
by loving and serving others.

Then he said to his disciples, "The harvest is abundant but the laborers are few; so ask the master of the harvest to send out laborers for his harvest."

Matthew 9:37

Reflection on the Gospel

As Jesus went “to all the towns and villages, teaching in their synagogues, proclaiming the gospel of the kingdom, and curing every disease and illness” (Matthew 9:35), He was moved with deep compassion for the crowds. The Greek verb splagchnizomai, often translated “moved with pity” or “moved with compassion,” appears twelve times in the Gospels. It describes not just an emotion, but a deep stirring of Jesus’ whole being that moves Him to act with divine mercy.

This word reveals the heart of Christ’s mission. His mercy flows from His divinity, yet He fully lives and expresses it through His humanity. His compassion engages His mind, will, body, and emotions, compelling Him to shepherd His people with tender love.

This should deeply console us. God does not love us from a distance or merely out of divine obligation. In Christ, God’s mercy becomes visible and personal. Jesus is not aloof, angry, or detached. His Sacred Heart is stirred to action, doing everything possible to draw us closer to Himself and reassure us of His saving love.

That same mercy continues to flow from the Sacred Heart today. In Heaven, Christ’s human heart remains forever united to His divinity, pouring out the love of the Father and the Holy Spirit upon the world. His compassion is made present through His Church, especially in the Sacraments and in the lives of holy men and women. This compassion must also become the driving force of our own lives, so that we may become living instruments of His mercy.

In today’s Gospel, Jesus’ compassion moves Him to send out the Twelve Apostles. He entrusts them with His authority to proclaim the Kingdom, cure the sick, raise the dead, cleanse lepers, and drive out demons. They are sent as instruments of mercy to the lost sheep of Israel, those in great need of God’s truth and healing grace.

Today, Jesus also sends each of us forth in a unique way. He first calls us to love those closest to us - our family and friends - with a self-giving love that reflects His own. We must allow our hearts to be moved with compassion for them, reassuring them of both our love and God’s love. But our mission cannot end there. We are called to extend that same mercy to all whom God places in our lives, reflecting the love that filled the Sacred Heart of Jesus.

Share His Love

Jesus saw the crowds of people, and His heart was full of love for them. He knew they needed help. He taught them, healed them, and cared for them. Jesus did not love people from far away. He came close to them with mercy.

This shows us the heart of Jesus. His Sacred Heart is full of love for each one of us. He is not cold or far away. He wants us to come close to Him and trust in His love.

Jesus also sends us to share His love. He asks us to love our family, our friends, and the people He puts in our lives. We can be kind. We can help. We can forgive. In this way, we show others the love of Jesus.

Pillars of Faith

by Fr. Stephen Baumann

St. Boniface, Bishop and Martyr

An Anglo-Saxon monk, Boniface was a missionary to neglected Christian communities and to heathens. He labored in what is now The Netherlands, the Rhineland and Bavaria in present day West Germany and the neighboring areas of France. His papal commission was to Germany, and he is today honored as the apostle of Germany.

Boniface was entrusted with broad authority for evangelizing and organizing the Church in the areas in which he and his monks worked. He established the foundations of a strong faith by preaching and by establishing monasteries which greatly aided in the structuring of the German Church. At the same time, he was influential in reforming the Frankish Church after the death of Charles Martel.

His activities were marked by a great zeal in preaching and by a sensitivity to the needs of his people. In a letter which we read on his feast day, he states: "Let us stand fast in what is right. Let us wait upon God's strengthening aid. Let us trust in Him. Let us preach the whole of God's plan to the powerful and to the humble, to rich and to poor as far as God gives us the strength." (2nd Reading, Liturgy of the Hours).

Like many early missionaries to heathen tribes, Boniface's life and efforts were rewarded with the martyr's crown at the hands of marauding pagans.

Through his intercession, we ask that we remain "loyal to our faith" and for the "courage to profess it in our lives." (Collect of Mass).
